A Possible Solution

The questionnaire appears to be the order of the day. As regards European finances and the matter of reparations and liquidation of obligations, the question is answered by Senator Robert L. Owen, former Chairman of the Committee on Banking and Currency, who says to the Harriman National Bank:

"If the European Nations would fix the reparations of Germany at a point the German people could pay and let the German bonds covering the reparations be endorsed by the Nations to the extent of their various interests, and we in turn endorsed them, the people of the United States undoubtedly would take a very large portion of these bonds and France could use such bonds and England could use such bonds to close up the amounts due the United States and the United States could sell them to the people here."

"The world-wide distribution of these bonds would prevent Germany ever considering the possibility of future repudiation of the debt. When this disposition is made the European currencies could be valorized and put on a gold basis by using the same principles as the Federal Reserve Act employs in the issuance of Federal Reserve Notes; in other words, have such money in every instance backed by commodity bills, secured by merchantable commodities to 100 per cent. endorsed by bankers seeking such currency and with 20 per cent of gold. The United States could afford to furnish all the gold necessary. If five hundred millions were furnished, the gold now in hoarding in Europe could be brought into a Federal Reserve European Bank by the exchange of European Federal Reserve bank notes, as we have done here."

FIND NEW PUZZLE IN KILLING OF RECTOR

Surgeons Disagree on Path of Bullet in Mrs. Carleton's Body.

HUSBAND ENTERS CASE

Carleton Says Wife Confessed to Him She Loved Dr. Christler.

HAVE, Mont., Oct. 31 (Associated Press).—Following findings by two Havre surgeons this afternoon that the bullet which killed Mrs. Margaret Carleton in the double killing here last Friday morning ranged downward through her body at a sharp angle, instead of directly in and slightly upward, as was testified at the inquest by Dr. Carl Foss, civil authorities were prepared to-night to make further investigation of the tragedy.

Prosecutor Max Kuhr said the development warranted investigation and said further evidence was expected.

The examination was made at the request of Mrs. Carleton's mother, Mrs. Joseph Phyle, of Butte, Mont. The bullet was found by the physicians in the muscles beside the spinal column. The home of the Rev. Leonard J. Christler, who was killed at the same time and place with Mrs. Carleton, was opened this afternoon in an unsuccessful effort to find evidence that the gun which discharged the fatal shots was the property of the Christlers.

Husband Issues Statement.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 31.—Mrs. Margaret Carleton, who with the Rev. Leonard J. Christler was found shot to death in E. Carleton, former Judge of the District Court, had confessed her love for the Rev. Mr. Christler to her husband, Frank E. Carleton, former Judge of the District Court at Havre, Mr. Carleton said to-night in a signed statement to the Associated Press.

"I can no longer remain silent in the face of the startling statement of Bishop Faber given to the Associated Press that 'I believe as a result of the investigation I have made of the tragedy which occurred in the Christler home early Friday morning and after questioning those who knew about it, that if this woman had been able to work her will on Mr. Christler he would be alive to-day, unfaithful to his wife but still living,' the statement said.

"I wonder if his Reverence knew when he made the statement that this pastor, who, it is now claimed, maintained only a friendly and ministerial interest in the Carleton family, had written letters to Margaret Davenport, my wife's maiden name, and sent them in care of general delivery?"

"Let it be well understood that in making this statement I intend to cast not the slightest reflection or condemnation upon my wife, for no one knows as well as I do the influence which this man held over her and which could reasonably be termed hypnotic."

FLUSHING EXTENSION SUBWAY CONTRACT LET

Two Years Allowed for Completion of Work.

The Transit Commission announced yesterday that it had awarded to the Oakdale Contracting Company, Inc., of Long Island City, the lowest of nine bidders, at $1,635,950.75, the contract for the subway portion of the Flushing extension of the Corona branch of the Queensboro subway.

The contract covers the construction of a three track subway, together with the ramp leading from the drawbridge that will carry the line across Flushing Creek.

Eighteen months will be allowed on the subway portion. All work must be completed in two years.

MIDSHIPMAN TRIED AS HAZER.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE NEW YORK HERALD. ANNAPOLIS, Oct. 31.—Jack H. Korfus, a midshipman of the first, or graduating class, went on trial before a court martial here this morning on a charge of hazing Midshipman Neil R. Campbell, a fourth class man, by throwing a tumbler at him and by compelling him to get under the table. The trial was postponed.

BROKER'S WIFE DIES AFTER ODD INJURY

Interior of Woman's Skull Crushed, With Exterior Remaining Still Intact.

CLOTS FORM ON BRAIN

Physicians Can Detect No Sign of Outward Bruise on Head of Motor Victim.

Mrs. Maximilian Kahn of 221 East Sixtieth street, whose husband is an investment security broker at 2 Rector street, died at noon yesterday in the Lenox Hill Hospital of an injury suffered on October 23. An automobile in which she was riding was forced off the road by another car in Greene county. The injury was of such an unusual nature that half a dozen of the foremost specialists in New York were unable to explain it. An operation performed on Monday disclosed that the whole left side of her head, on the inside, had been crushed and that clots had formed on the brain. But there were no outward evidences of the wound and no indications of a fractured skull.

Mrs. Kahn suffered her injury a mile south of Coxsackie. With her husband and Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Schroth and their niece, Miss Elsa Schroth, she had been to Glens Falls and was returning home in a motor car driven by a chauffeur.

four. The three women sat on the rear seat, with Mrs. Kahn on the right outside. The chauffeur tried to pass a car ahead of them south of Coxsackie, but the driver of the latter turned in toward the middle of the road. This forced the Kahn automobile off the road and over a ditch, missing a telegraph pole by about eight inches and coming to a stop on an embankment.

The car was severely jolted as it went across the ditch, but it did not hit anything. Mrs. Schroth and Miss Elsa Schroth did not notice that Mrs. Kahn shifted about in her seat at all. Yet, when the car was stopped, it was found that she was blind and unconscious and bleeding profusely from the mouth, nose and ears. The car was hurriedly driven back to Coxsackie, and Dr. Ernest Van Heusen, of Albany, was called. Mrs. Kahn lay unconscious at the Park House in Coxsackie for a week. During that time she was examined frequently by Dr. Van Heusen and by Drs. John Worthman and M. Murray Waxman. They were unable to determine what was the exact nature of the injury. She had no signs of injury except two slight bruises on her right leg and her right arm.

When the three physicians at Coxsackie could not diagnose the case it was decided to send Mrs. Kahn to New York. She arrived here Sunday, still blind and unconscious. Prof. Burton Oberst of Columbia University and Bellevue Hospital was called. He sent for Dr. Willy Meyer and Dr. Jacob and other prominent surgeons and specialists. When they could find no signs of injury an operation was decided upon. This disclosed the crushing of the inside of the left part of Mrs. Kahn's head, but no one has been able to explain how she could have hit that side of her head during the time when the machine jolted off the road. The surgeons cannot explain how the inside of her head could be so terribly crushed and yet have no exterior signs whatever of any wound.

Mrs. Kahn was a daughter of Dr. H. C. Brannon of Wheeling, W. Va., and a cousin of Alvin Macaulay, president of the Packard Company.

Do you know what "siesta" is?

IN the tropical countries, it is the hour at noon when it is too hot to do anything but sleep.

The American equivalent is the hour or two immediately following a heavy lunch, when the business man's brain doses and naps and refuses to do its best work.

It can easily be avoided by eating a light lunch and drinking plenty of milk. Milk gives the strength and energy needed by the brain without straining the digestion and inducing sleepiness. Try it today.
